Welcome to Our Visitors

Thank you for coming. Please fill out the card in the back of the song book. We invite you to come again.

Glad to be home:

I enjoyed being with the brethren at the West Road congregation in Mt. Home, AR. They are a group of saints that I believe are "walking in the truth" (2 John 4).

Adult Bible Class:

The adult Bible class is studying 1 Corinthians. You will be provided an outline. Take time to read chapters 1 and 2 in preparation for the class.

Today's Sermons:

AM: A Changed Man (Acts 9:1-4).

PM: The Jews Advantage (Rom. 3:1-8).

A PROPHET WE SHOULD ALL IMITATE

Charles Coats

Seldom do we find one so bold as to stand for the Truth in the face of what could be certain death. Yet, there is a prophet of God that did just that. His name is Micaiah and his story is found in 1 Kings 22. When we look at this section of scripture, we see a person who stood, not before one, but before two kings who ruled over Israel and Judah, kings who had within their power the right of life or of death.

Jehoshaphat of Judah and Ahab of Israel were discussing whether they should go and fight against Syria. To help convince Jehoshaphat to go with him, Ahab calls his prophets together and asked what he should do. Of course, these paid men of the king all told him that he should go into battle and he would win a great victory. Jehoshaphat is not fully convinced and asks if there is someone else they could ask.

Ahab reluctantly sends for one more prophet, a person he detests. Micaiah, the hated prophet, comes before the two kings and ends up telling them that they would lose the battle and Ahab would lose his life. It was the message Jehoshaphat wanted to hear, but that which Ahab did not want to hear.

As we think about these events going on, we see a prophet of God whom we should imitate in our lives. He told the truth regardless of any personal consequences that could come his way. This is even more impressive when we read that the messenger from the king had told Micaiah to tell Ahab what everyone else was telling him. Micaiah had been given the chance of saving his life by lying to the King (1 Kings 22:13).

As we think about our lives, if we were faced with a similar situation, would we be faithful to God? We see so many today who compromise the truth so they will not “suffer” in this world. Under less dangerous circumstances so many yield to the pressures of the world to save their own lives. Micaiah helps us to understand what we should do when asked to teach or do that which is contrary to God’s will. His answer to the messenger of the king found in 1 Kings 22:14 is what should be on the tongues of every Christian today – “As the Lord liveth, what the Lord saith unto me, that will I speak.”

Micaiah was not going to give in at all. He was the prophet of God and God’s message is what they would hear from him, whether popular or not. This reminds me of the passage in 2 Timothy 4:2 where we are commanded to preach the word both in season and out of season, whether popular or not. Let us follow the example of Micaiah in our lives.

WE CAN BE TOO BUSY FOR OUR OWN GOOD

Kevin Williams

When our children were small, I decided early on that I didn't want to be so busy doing the Lord's work outside the home, that I failed to do His work on the inside of the house, namely training our children. Imagine telling the Lord on the Day of Judgment:

"Lord, I would have gone to visit others, but I was so busy with my job until I didn't feel like doing anything else when I came home."

"Lord, I would have taught my neighbor, but I was afraid she might ask me a question I couldn't answer."

"Lord, I would have studied your word, but I was so busy doing other things for you until I just didn't have time."

"Lord, I would have gone to worship on Sunday, but that was the only day I had to rest and do what I wanted to do."

"Lord, I would have gone regularly, but Lord sometimes we had company and I just couldn't leave them at home after they had driven so far to come to see us."

"Lord, I would have had a devotional in our home, but I just didn't feel comfortable doing it with the children."

"Lord, I would have helped them out down at the church but you know there are hypocrites in that church and I just didn't want to go worship with them. If they'd just cleaned out the church . . ."

"Lord, I felt like I could just worship at home as good as going down there and being with all those people. I never did like to be in crowds of people."

"Lord, I didn't have clothes nice enough to wear to church."

We can be too busy for our own good.
