“WHY DO SOME GET SO LITTLE OUT OF WORSHIP?”

Bill Jackson (1929-1991)

My cousin, returning from World War II, stopped off to visit with us and attended worship with us. He had come from a non-religious background, and it is doubtful that he had ever attended the services held by the chaplains, weak as they were. I have seen few people so miserable in my life as was that cousin when we were in worship. Hardly any verse could be mentioned or read that he had ever heard of; he knew nothing of the New Testament church or the proper divisions of the Bible. He had no idea as to the items of New Testament worship, or that Christianity was a life to be lived outside the services. He indicated he obtained nothing from the Bible study and worship. Of course, he put nothing into it either.

Well, in his ignorance of things pertaining to the Bible, it is understandable that he “got nothing from, the worship.” Of course, more concern are those in the kingdom, some for years, who will still state, “I get so little from worship!” We firmly believe the same point is true that relates to that cousin of mine; we get something only when we put something in. There is no excuse for a child of God to come to worship and study with nothing, putting in nothing, and then expecting anything but nothing.

Just think of these points as we approach worship and study as a child of God...

1. Every song can remind me of Biblical truths and my need to feel more appreciation for God and His efforts for me.
2. Every Bible verse given in classes and worship has a lesson for me, and should remind me of similar verses, and especially of my own need to know more of the Bible.
3. Everything expressed in prayer should remind me of my own blessings, and of my own praying and how I can improve it.
4. Every point made in song, prayer, and remarks at the Lord’s Table should cause me to be more thankful for the sacrifice of the Christ and make me more appreciative of His death and shed blood.
5. Participation in giving to the Lord’s cause should awaken in me greater appreciation and love for the kingdom, its work, and for the part I have in it.

Even in the announcements made, I can see opportunities for service in seeing the sick, shut-ins, and the bereaved, to say nothing of opportunities to greet and welcome visitors and newcomers. Getting nothing out of services? Better think again.

The fact is, I get something only when and if I put in something. If I come to worship with an empty bucket, want nothing in it, and by lack of interest block anything that starts to enter it, I will leave with an empty bucket. Someone said, “If we keep that up, the bottom will rust out completely.” (Worship is a wonderful blessing.)

“GOING HOME AFTER WORSHIP”

Winfred Clark (1923-1997)

I find some interesting phrases in the Bible to describe some folks who went to worship and then went home. That is what Abraham proposed to do at the foot of Mount Moriah when he said, “I and the lad will go yonder and worship, and come again to you” (Genesis 22:5). Jesus described two men who went home from the temple after they had prayed (Luke 18:1-4). Also, one is impressed with the attitude of the eunuch as he returns from worship reading his Bible (Acts 8:27-28).

How would these go home? What effect did the devotion have on their lives? What impact would such make?

What of Abraham and Isaac? How would it be with them as they went home after worship? What occurred while they were at the place of worship?

One can remember that this was the place of sacrifice. It was a place where Abraham was willing to lay on the altar the dearest he had on earth. He would sacrifice his own son at God’s command. To him and Isaac worship became a place of surrender as well as sacrifice. If there was any resistance in his will such was surely overcome.

Remember also the sacrifice of the ram in the stead of Isaac. They came to see the substitute and appreciate it.

May it be so with us. That worship becomes the place of surrender and sacrifice as we come to appreciate the death of our dear Lord.
